SONOMA COUNTY | SEA RANCH

Sea Ranch Lodge

The iconic SEA RANCH LODGE was built in 1968 and stylishly reimagined in July 2023 to inspire guests craving a quiet, coastal escape to live “lightly on the land,” according to the ethos of its community. It’s hard to imagine how sea worshipers could be made to feel any more at home. But with the addition of four new properties crafted by acclaimed architects to its Sea Ranch Living Program — Shanti House, Third Rock, Cedar + Skye, and Compass Close — the 53-acre site in Sonoma County, 100 miles north of San Francisco, is offering its most immersive home-away-from-home experience yet.

According to general manager Kristina Jetton, the additions encompass “the best of Sea Ranch in a residential setting.” And we’re not just referring to the thoughtfully curated interiors, indoor-outdoor living, or chef’s kitchens. Think customized pre-arrival groceries, in-room spa treatments, and an attention to detail that includes everything from Brooklinen linens to board games and sketching supplies.

How to choose which property is right for you? Opt for Third Rock, designed by the acclaimed Obie Bowman FAIA, if you want panoramic views; Shanti House for serene star-gazing; Cedar + Skye for cozy-cabin-in-the-woods vibes; and the hill-perched Compass Close if you’re looking for something more spacious. No matter which one you opt for, you won’t want to leave. thesearanchlodge.com. M.H.

From top: Thoughtfully curated interiors at Third Rock include vintage furniture by Alvar Aalto, Marimekko fabrics, and period artwork by Robert Rauschenberg; located 1.6 miles from the Lodge, the Third Rock property provides a coastal sanctuary of serenity; a bedroom at Cedar + Skye, designed by Ralph Matheson and nestled in the forest.

Four new properties have been added to Sea Ranch Living.
