Maynard Lyndon Artist Exhibition

Exhibition:

Reception:
Thursday

Maynard has been drawing, painting, and creating since childhood, encouraged by his family to look, learn, create, and share. His sharing has spanned teaching, product development, and retail environments, including galleries and design shops. After working with architects in the 1960s, he opened a handmade toy shop in Santa Monica and later held Director roles in product development at Creative Playthings and Forms&Surfaces.

In 1972, Maynard met his wife Lu at Design Research, and together they founded several design companies, including Placemakers, Placewares, and LyndonDesign, as well as the LyndonDesign Gallery at The Sea Ranch. After closing the gallery in 2024, they moved to Healdsburg and continue their design work through their LyndonDesign studio.

For this special exhibit, Maynard has focused on painting square formats since March 2025, inspired by his 'Looking Boxes' and Bruno Munari's book Discovery of the Square. The works include 8"x8" and 12"x12" pieces on deckle-edged Indian rag paper and birch panels, using acrylics, watercolors, and colored pencils, under the series title 'Within A Square'.

A small square book, designed by Hall Kelley—titled 'Within A Square' is also available in limited quantities here at the Lodge or at LyndonDesign@me.com

Serendipity and the story behind these images

Many photographs are carefully planned, and sometimes orchestrated events. The photographer sets out in a particular month and time of day with just the right equipment, models may be used, and some even “pre-visualize” the image and print. But I am finding that many of my best photographs are not made with this approach; instead, serendipity plays an out-sized role.

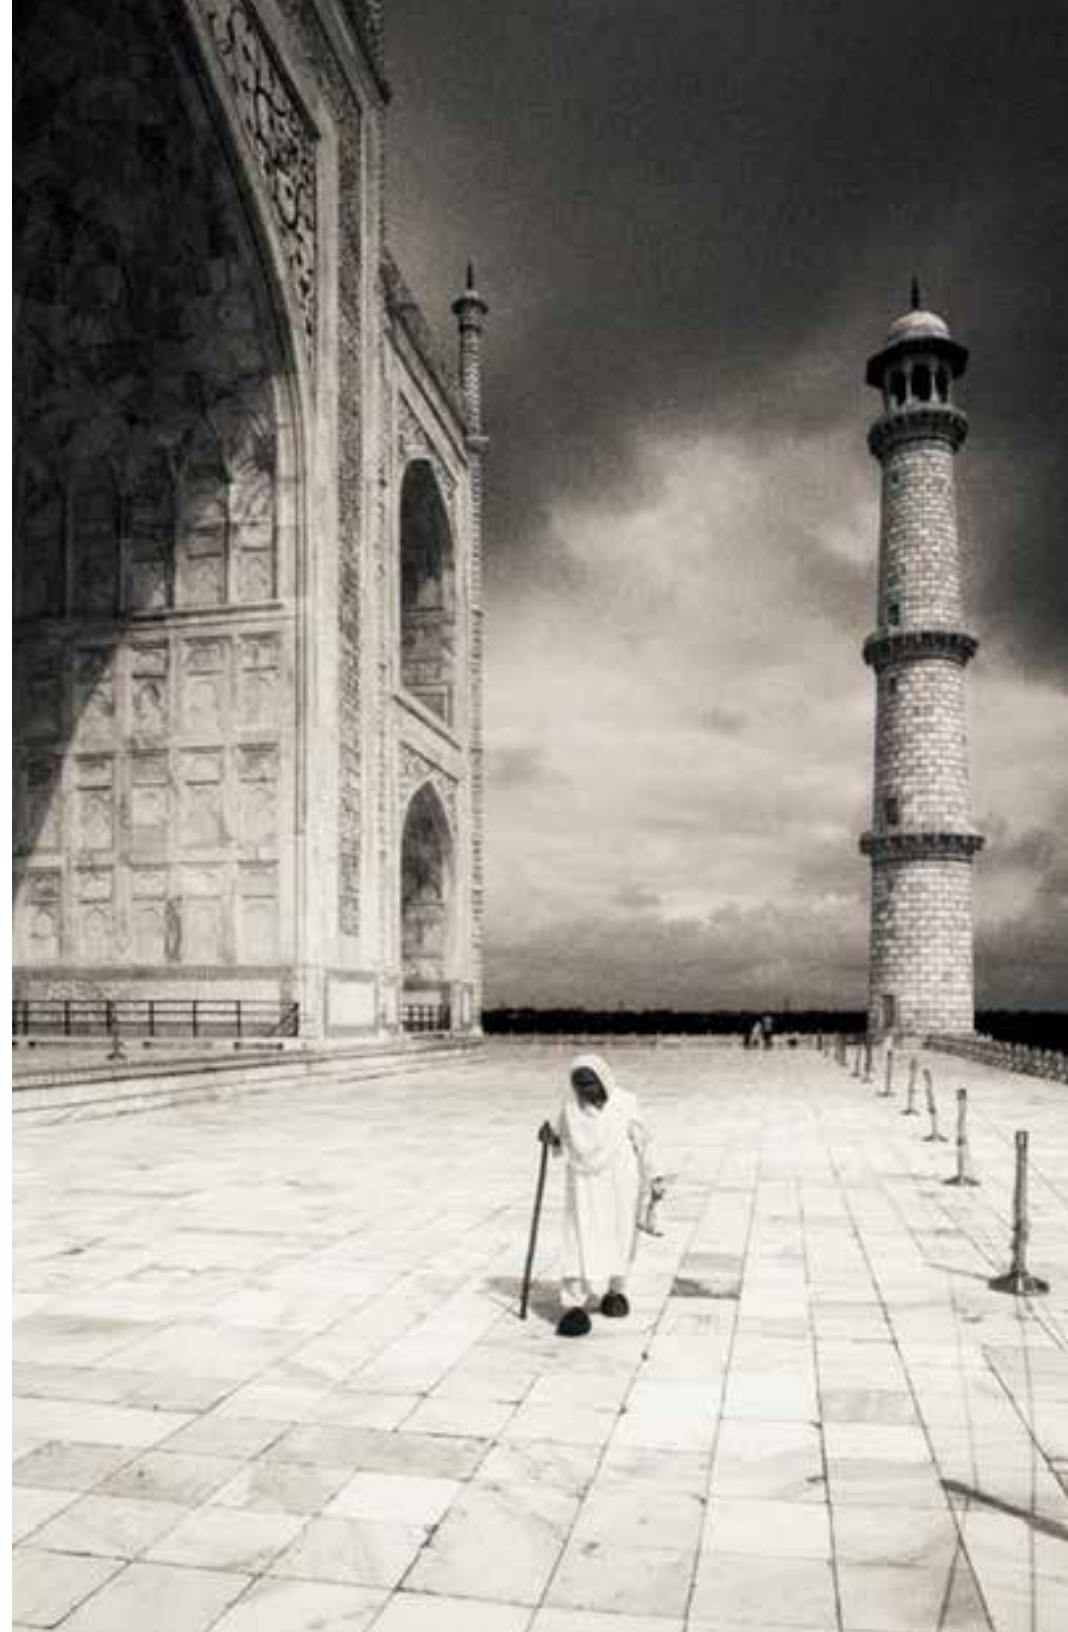

Serendipity is different from just being lucky, for one must be prepared to capitalize on opportunities that arise unexpectedly. I have come to think of it as something that can be cultivated, a skill that can be refined.

Perhaps that is what Louis Pasteur meant when he said “Luck favors the prepared mind” as did Gary Player, the golfer who quipped “The more I practice, the luckier I get”.

In these photographs, I describe how something wonderful happened unexpectedly, and because I was open to it and prepared, I was able to make the photograph. I hope you too will set goals; but in your creative and even work life, be open to what is offered, and prepared to act when you recognize the gift.

About the artist: Arun is interested in making minimalist quiet compositions influenced by the principles of Asian landscape painting, and in making unique and expressive prints, especially on Japanese handmade washi. You can learn more and see Arun’s work at ArunPatelStudio.com.
